Kamara Holsinger and Kristen Jantzen, just two of the many Bethel College students working hard to get a job done. It takes one to start a project but a million to finish.

The proud expose their true colors by showing that being "one in a million" has its own rewards.

TRUE COLORS

Could it be true? Another year has come and gone but the memories never die. All along students enjoy the good and the bad together. Each person added a pinch of spice to the pot and soon we had the best mixture around? Mixture of what you say. Well a mixture of people, all studying and playing together.

Each person is "one in a million" and that important fact is just exemplified throughout the Bethel campus. Just look around and see the joy in the great sea of bodies gathered together to celebrate the beginning of life.

Fall Festival 1993: Brain Waves

Celebrating A Century Of Teaching

A One-Derful Celebration of Self and Society

A weekend of brainwaves was kicked off by the Fall Festival Convocation entitled "Celebrating a Century of Teaching." This commemoration of former Bethel professors emphasized both their own personal achievements throughout the course of their carrers, and also the impact they had on the student body. Celebration of self and society, ideally, go hand in hand; independence and interdependence are not contradictory terms.

It takes all parts to make a whole, a concept which was clearly demonstrated in the diversity of the ethnic heritages represented on Saturday, most obviously in the food booths. Back by popular demand, the International Club sold Indian curry and purees. The lines were long for the bratwurst sold by the German Club, as well as for their Calvin and Hobbes Deutschlub mugs. There were demonstrations in making Low German delicacies such as apple priescha and verenika, complementing the traditional German-Swiss luncheon in Thresher Gym. The Alumni Association again sold Mexican-American food, though more authentic Mexican food was found in the demonstrations of rolling tortillas and burritos, done by the Our Lady of Guadalupe Fiesta Committee.

Various ethnic heritages were also represented in other manners. The Azteca Dancers from Newton High School presented traditional Mexican dancers, giving brief historical summaries on both the dances and their costumes. Along the same lines, the Mid-America All-Indian Center Dancers performed on Centennial Plaza in the afternoon. The Fine Arts Center gallery was open all day for the viewing of "Hecho en Newton," a display of Mexican-American art by area artists Patrice and Raymond Olais, and caricaturist Fred Gonzalez. Krehbiel Auditorium was the scene of several dramas during the weekend. A one-act play in the Schweitzer dialect was presented shortly before the annual Low German program, this year, "En Mensch Mott Leare." This year's Fall Festival drama was "The Miracle Worker" by William Gibson, depicting the life of Hellen Keller.

Many of the clubs on campus had booths dealing with societal issues, both on the local and global levels. Peace club once again sold tie-dyed t-shirts. Amnesty International displayed a petition concerning their political prisoner in South Africa. The Newton Et Cetera Shop had a large booth displaying their many self-help crafts from countries around the world.

The Bethel Sinfonia wrapped up the afternoon with their performance of "The Mennonite Piano Concerto," by Victor Davies, with Mory Ortman performing as piano soloist. This was likely the clearest example of the interdependence between self and society. Each instrumentalist performing to the best of their ability, yet only when all parts are combined is the full effect produced.

"Despite the freezing weather it was a grand experience." commented Melanie Burke, sophomore from London, England. Larissa Schmidt, junior from Wakarusa,IN, thought "the sciences had an awesome display this year."

The Season for Giving

Once again its time to go out and buy gifts for friends and family, but before you leave for Christmas break there are two prerequisites: First, the big "F" or finals and second, all of the spectacular Christmas celebrations that have become tradition at Bethel. Some of these traditions that students look forward to are Winter Frolic, the Christmas Festival and the banquet for students, The Lighting of the Green, residence hall Open House. . . , just to name a few!

According to Greg Hinex, sophmore from Midwest City, OK, "Christmas was an uplifter for me, because I got to see my extended family and the presents weren't bad either!" Chywanna Iverson, senior from Stuttgart, AR, says "Christmas is always good for me because my family and I get together and remenise about childhood stories, mostly the embarrassing ones."

Speaking of embarrassments- There wasn't a soul on the cast of- "Amahl and the Night Visitors" that shouldn't have felt superb by their performance- during the Christmas festival this year. Although Christmas break is a time that students look forward to getting away from the campus, they also look forward to the wonderful Christmas traditions that are always very festive here at Bethel.

FUN AND THE SUN

This year Bethel decided to break away from tradition. Instead of having two formal events, we had a formal event and an event where grass skirts were a must. Winter Frolic was an evening of elegance; everyone dressed to impress awaiting an evening filled with fun and entertainment. The entertainment for this year was the opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors" followed by the Winter Frolic Dance. Spring Fling was renamed this year to Spring Luau! This was an event where students could let down their hair, put on a grass skirt and try to be an islander. It was totally a break away from the norm; both attire and food wise. We actually had a roasted pig!

Bethel Students Do The World

During the month of January, Bethel students are given the opportunity to travel. While the majority choose to either stay at home or remain on campus, there are some who pack their bags and say "C-YA!" Travelers can go to foreign countries, artistic hide-aways, or to cities in our own country. "[Interterm provides] the opportunity to broaden my experience by traveling away from the Bethel College campus," says Carrie Boden.

This year's Workday exceeded last year's Workday tremendously. This Workday was better than last year because we had more requests than we could handle. The profits eceeded the $4,000 that was expected. As tradition the participants of Workday were invited to an ice cream bar as a reward for their participation. Some groups and individuals received monetary awards for their participation at a convocation that followed Friday.

Looking Back Thirty Years at the Kennedy Administration

Pulitzer Prize-winner Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr. was on the Bethel campus last fall to present two speeches, one entitled, "Looking Back Thirty Years at the Kennedy Administration." His oration on Monday, November 22, marked the thirtieth anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. During Kennedy's term, Schlesinger served as his special assistant on the White House staff. He later wrote the book which earned him a Pulitzer Prize, "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House." His November 21 speech was entitled "The Disuniting of America," a discussion of his recent book dealing with the effects of multiculturalism in the United States.

Schlesinger is not only an author and former Kennedy administration official, but a historian as well. He was a full professor of history at Harvard University, from which he was also a graduate. Schlesinger was also the founder of Americans for Democratic Action, which was organized to implement unrealized goals of the New Deal era. Contributing to several political campaigns and administrations, Schlesinger resigned from the White House staff two months after Kennedy's assassination to return to an academic lifestyle and teach at The City University of New York. Schlesinger was brought to campus by the Bethel College Student Senate.

"Two Thumbs Up!"

Miracle Worker Drama a Hit

by Manuel Rios

The production of "The Miracle Worker," produced by John McCabe-Junke, assistant professor of communication arts, during the annual Fall Festival. With the combination of strong acting and creative set design, the audience was held captive by the story unfolding on the stage before them in Krehbiel Auditorium.

"The Miracle Worker" is the story of Annie Sullivan. Sullivan, a recent graduate of Boston's Perkins Institute for the Blind, is hired to teach a young woman who is deaf, blind and mute. Her pupil, Helen Keller, proves to be a spoiled child that provides a large challenge for Sullivan. By the end of the play, Sullivan has built a friendship with Keller, and has begun to teach her how to communicate with the world around her. The play is based upon the true story of Helen Keller.

The production received rave review from students, faculty, the community, and Fall Fest goers. The campus newspaper, The Collegian, called it "A must see production"

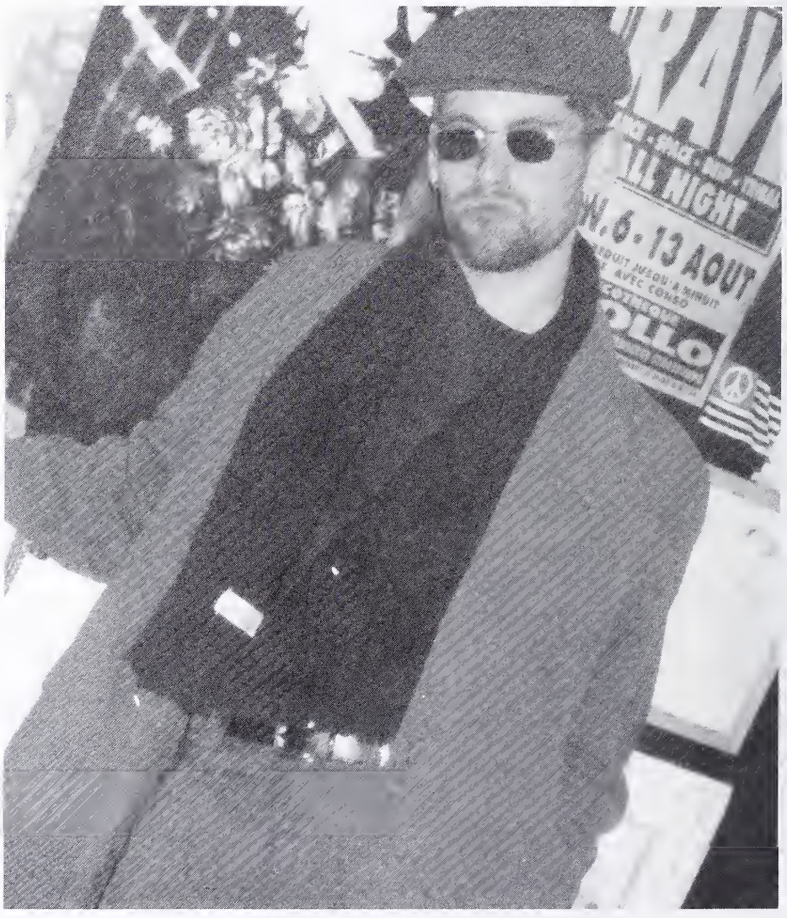
"It's been a highly successful year for the forensics team in comparison to last year," said Bryn Gribben. I think it's because of the new workroom. I think having our own armchair has really improved our performance."

"This is the first year I've done debate," said Heather Esau. "It's been fun, and has been a real learning experience.



BEWARE... FORENSICATORS ON THE LOOSE!!

Another year, another season for the Bethel forensics team...only this one wasn't quite the same. Parliamentary debate has been popular on the west coast for some time, but this year Bethel became a part of the newly-formed National Parliamentary Debate. This form of debate uses no case files; it is a values debate where the topic is chosen ten minutes before the round begins, and is a test of personal argumentation skills. There have been two to three Bethel teams on the circuit this year, some of whom have advanced to elimination rounds and also earned individual speaker awards. The Bethel debate squad is ranked 11th nationally in this young organization. Tammy Duvanel-Unruh finished her second year as coach for this section of the forensics team.

On the other side of the spectrum are the impromptu and persuasive competitions. Coach John McCabe-Juhnke, having returned from his recent sabbatical, is now joined by Bryan Reber as assistant coach. With district competitions in March, McCabe-Juhnke hopes to have some qualifiers for the national tournament in April, to be held at the Wichita State University campus. The confidence of the team is embodied in senior Rob Epp's announcement that he "looks forward to dominating the competition."

PROFESSORS NEAR AND FAR

Taking a year off of work and still getting paid? Where's the catch? Every year, several professors submit proposals for sabbaticals, be it for study, travel or writing a book, that will enhance their teaching in future terms. Patty Shelly, professor of Bible and Religion, is extending her Interterm trip to Jerusalem and staying the spring semester at an ecumenical institute in the West Bank, in between Jerusalem and Bethlehem. Tom Lehman, professor of chemistry, and Fern Gerber, nursing department, are both on sabbatical here in the States.

Dwight Platt, professor of biology, is doing a combination of both local and international projects. During the fall semester, he divided his time between a number of projects, such as a paper on the food habits of snakes, 15 speicies accounts to be printed in a wildflowers grower's handbook, and a documentation of plant species from a prairie near Winfield. He also played a major role in coordinating the Environment, Development and Peace Conference held in February, serving also as moderator for the concluding panel discussion.

In the spring, Platt traveled to India to conduct a study on the population of frogs surrounding Indian villages. He has a colleague at one of the Indian universities who will serve as a research assistant and continue the study for another six months after Platt returns to the States. This is a follow-up study to one performed 40 years ago when Platt was serving in India with the American Friends Service Committee. This latest project is being supported by the Smithsonian Institute. Paul Janzen was the visiting professor filling in during Platt's sabbatical.

Sophomore Mark Lamb remarked of the choir tour, "It's fun to see all the joy and energy we as a choir can give to people who don't even speak English." (Photo by Dave Wilson)

"The pieces we sing in choir are the kind that stay in your head for days," said Rachel Epp. "Sometimes I don't really mind, but sometimes..."

And the music

"I've enjoyed playing in Sinfonia during my time at Bethel. Since I don't take lessons, it's been nice to have a chance to just play in something like that. I'm also continually amazed at how Don can put concerts together in such a short time, and often with so few people."

Sinfonia and Jazz Band are the two instrumental groups on campus that can be taken as a class. They each perform a series of concerts throughout the year, both on campus and off. Many members of Sinfonia also participate in the Newton Mid-Kansas Orchestra. Sinfonia and Jazz Band each meet twice a week, and are conducted by Don Kehrberg, professor of music.

"Sinfonia is a whole lot more fun than other orchestras, simply because of the people and because of the things we get away with! For the size of the group, we play pieces that other orchestras wouldn't even try, because of a lack of instruments."

Commuter Students Not Only Non-Traditionals

Most people associate the phrase "commuter student" with "non-traditional student." While this is an accurate correlation some of the time, it is also a vast generalization. There are many Newton-area students of traditional age who choose to commute for a variety of reasons, the most common of which is a lower cost of living. Sophomore Jeanette Nisly commutes daily from Hutchinson, where she lives with relatives. Wichita commuter Aimee Leisy made the daily trek first semester, before leaving for her spring term Mexico internship. Seniors Rob Epp and Ashish Chitre are both classified as commuters, even though they live just down the block in campus housing.

In the past, the biggest complaint of commuter students has been the difficulties met in trying to get involved in things on campus. Thanks to Student Senate Commuter Representative Mike Hamilton, their concerns are now being voiced, and heard. The commuter lounge on the top floor of Memorial Hall has been more widely publicized this year. Many non-traditional commuter students have been meeting for lunch on a regular basis, either in Bubbert's or in seminar.

Julie Maier on being a commuter student: " I really like it; it works well for my situation because of my weird hours and studying patterns. I feel like I can be more organized because I don't have to deal with people being around all the time. Also, I feel like I can eat healthier and when I want."

Ben Geissinger on the Interterm trip: "I had a great time and would definitely do it again. It made me consider a possible future occupation in bronze casting."

Changes in the Art Department

Finishing up its second year in teh Franz Shop, formerly the building to house industrial arts, things are beginning to fall into place for the art department. For instance, several pencil sharpeners and a drinking fountain have been installed. Some may question the necessity of such items, but try sitting in drawing class in 100 degree weather with a broken pencil, being interrogated by Gail Lutsch as to why you're not working! The art department recently acquired 1500 new art history slides, now in the process of being catalogued, which will replace old slides whose colors have faded or have "gone pink." The department expanded its offerings in a new way this year, taking the form of an interterm trip. Department head Merrill Krabill took eight students, his family and his dog up into the Colorado mountains to do bronze casting. Despite freezing temperatures, reactions were positive. "It was a unique opportunity to sculpt in a new media," said sophomore art major Roger Keating.

The gallery in the Fine Arts Center is also under the jurisdiction of the art department. Department assistants help hang the shows, which have been quite diverse this year. "Hecho en Newton" was the show during Fall Fest, displaying the works of three Mexican-American artists with ties to Newton. Rolph Westphal then exhibited his chair-and-obelisk bronze sculpture series as well as his collection of rather non-functional ceramic platters. University of Kansas professor David Vertacnik lent his mixed media sculptures for exhibition up through winter break. Second semester began with a display from Rolph Westphal's personal collection, ceramic sculpture which he acquired while in Siberia. The month after spring break was a showing of Washburn professor Glenda Taylor's mixed media sculptures. This was followed by the annual student show, a juried exhibit of work by Bethel students from throughout the year. The final display was a senior show by graduating art major Tanya Friesen.

Graduation...a time to laugh, a time to weep

The end of May. It was hot. No breeze was blowing. Mem Hall was packed. It only added up to one thing...graduation. 120 graduates walked across the stage to receive their diploma. It was a special day, for at no time in the future will all 1994 Bethel graduates again be gathered in one place. They are going many different directions: some to an institute of higher learning, some to the job world...8 of the graduates admitted to marriage plans. We wish them the best as they enter a new phase of life. May they find their own place in the world, and in that, happiness.

One, and it's not the same.

Each person is different and it's these differences that make up the million. Every person on the Bethel College campus is part of a greater million that helps to give cohesion and craziness to the campus. As each of us draws nearer to the end of our college years we will begin to realize the millions we make up. It's important that none of us lose the individuality we've striven for and gained in our years at Bethel College. Self must become the best before the possibility of a productive citizen comes to mind. Through our individuality we see how one is not the same when blended into the million. In this section we hope to show that one, with all of his/her individuality, is as important as the million that make up the society.

Invades New York

by Carmina Chavez

Who are those zanny guys with the awesome sound? The Cult of Kumquat, who have gained popularity almost overnight, have been together for a little more than a year. They got the idea of forming the band one night while sitting around talking. The members include Ben Chappell, senior from Bluffton, Ohio, Eric Frey, sophmore from Newton, Kansas, Mike Ratzlaff, junior from Lawrence, Kansas, and Kevin Gaeddert, junior from Newton, Kansas and roadies Tim Buller, sophmore from Wichita, Kansas, and Roger Keating, freshman from Claflin, Kansas, the band was successful both on Bethel's campus and the outside public.

Their talent was put on display this year when Cult of Kumquat was selected as finalists in the "Rap and Roll '93" contest sponsored by Closeup toothpaste. Band members got the chance to go to New York with all expenses paid to perform an original piece. The whole thing was a surprise since Mike had to persuade the other members to even give it a try. Earlier in the year Mike had seen the flier and decided that it was a good opportunity for the band, so they sent in a song. When Mike got the call that they were one of the bands selected in a nation-wide search to go perform in New York everyone was estatic. Not only did they perform in New York but they also went into the TV studio to go on the Mike and Moggie Show. With all the excitement thrown at the group this year, it's a wonder that they have still managed to keep their lives in order.

According to sources the band has had to perform less since two of the members, Ben Chappell and Kevin Gaeddert, have moved away from Newton. They still plan on having a few gigs now and then but for the most part the Cult of Kumquat has gone underground for the time-being. They will open for Punkinhead and do a few gigs in Bluffton, Ohio.

About his experience Mike Ratzlaff has to say this, "I've been in a couple of bands before now but Cult of Kumquat has been the most popular. It was fun writing and playing with these guys. We turned out some of the greatest music I've done up to now. It's been fun from the notoritity we've recieved."

Please friend, smile.

Smile for I would do anything for you.

What do you want?
What do you feel?
Tell me for I would do anything for you.

I would swallow the moon and spit it at your feet
Or pull a star from the sky and twitch your ear with it.

We could run through the fields yelling and tumbling
Or jump off the bank itnto the cool stream below.

See friend.

Where's the Fire?

right: Newton's fire truck and ambulance are on hand for the excitement at Georing.(or maybe it's for the danger) The excitement reached the whole campus that night. (photo by Thang Duong)

below: Matt Pickrell thinks that all the comotion is neat. So Matt now that you've met the fire department are you going to be a fireman too. (photo by Thang Duong)

"We stood around in the halls for a while. The fire trucks were neat."-Eric Peters left: The fire fighters hold a conference on fi north to talk about how to best approach th delima. (photo by Thang Duong)

below:A lone Georing resident calls for help from the second floor. Then again he may ju be watching the show from a balcony seat. (photo by Thang Duong)

by Carmina Chavez

The day is March 2, 1994. The time is 8:00 p.m.. All's well on the Georing homefront. The guys are doing their normal guy stuff, watching Melrose Place, playing ultimate on first west, penny locking on second north, and so on. No one suspects the danger that is lurking right down the hall. Brandon Russell, freshman from Coldwater, Kansas, is sitting in his room waiting for something exciting to happen. All of a sudden he smells something funny. It's as if some rubber is burning. Ok it could be that some Joe Smoe just pulled up after a long day at work and wanted to let off some steam, but I think not. Brandon Russell tried to ignore the smell and couldn't. He called his faithful RD, Lori Voth, who suggested strongly that they look for the cause of the smell and call 911. Brandon later expressed his frustration with the Bethel phone system, "I kept dialing 911 but instead of the 911 people I got Eric Peters. I'm just glad that I could keep my cool even when faced with the horrible disaster that was threatening hundreds of lives."

Finally after many futile attempts Brandon was able to get a 911 operator and the fire trucks and ambulance were soon on their way to rescue Georing from what could become a tragedy. Once at Georing the firemen quickly started the search for the horrible smell. (It was like a gassy smell.) The area of the smell was soon narrowed to first and second north, which meant that the whole west wing had to be evacuated for the residents safety. The residents filing out of Georing along with the sirens and flashing lights began to attract other students, even across campus where Steve Unruh was participating in play rehersal. That night even intermural basketball quit to see what all the comotion was about. With the residents safely out of the way the fire fighters soon located the problem. It seems that the fan in the shower room had been left on for quite a while causing a fan circuit to burn out and create the intense heat. The heat in turn created the burning smell that caused everyone to take notice. Thanks to the Newton fire department Georing was saved from a terrible fate. Ross Musselman, freshman from Hutchinson, Kansas, expressed his fear, "When I saw the fire trucks outside of Georing I panicked and started gathering my most valued possessions ready to run at the drop of a hat." Ross was lucky that the fire department got there on time and was able to stop the destruction before it started.

"Due to the cooperation of the residents and efficiency of the RAs Georing was saved." expressed a relieved RD, Lori Voth. For most this was a relief but Chris Selzer, sophmore from Protection, Kansas, said, "I was rooting for a burn out in hopes that we could rebuild Georing better than before." Sorry Chris but the same old Georing will be standing for quite a while longer.
Yes, today first north is just a normal hall with no dark reminders of that fateful night so long ago.

"It was exciting because nothing ever happens. We got the works:sirens and lots of lights!"-Phil Sawatzky

Psychology Colloquiun

The Pshycology Colloquium tends to provide a forum for discussion of current psychological topics. These topics have included the evidence for and against the presence of an after-life, feminist research and gender issues, the pyschology of advertising and mass media, and others. They also helped sponsor a convocation speaker in the fall.

Elementary Education Club

Elementary Education Club is a group of students who enjoy sharing the love of children. They meet to discuss changes in the education field, share fellowship and provide fun activities for community children.

Thresher Workday

Thresher Editors Kristen Jantzen and Kamara Holsinger work hard to meet their deadlines in November.

Pi Kappa Delta

"The Art of Persuasion Beautiful and Just" has long been the motto of Pi Kappa Delta. Being an honorary speech and debate fraternity, the goal of the organization is to further communication in all forms. Throughout the year, Pi Kappa Delta strives to achieve public awareness of forensics on the collegiate level. Every other year Bethel members of Pi Kappa Delta attend the organization's national tournament. In 1993 Bethel competed in Tacoma, Washington. The 1995 tournament will be in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Clio

Clio is Bethel's history club, named for the muse of history. Activities are always related to hisory, of course. This year the club had it' annual Halloween party at Keith Sprunger's house. Those who attended were supposed to dress as a famous person or event in histor Club members also saw a movie concerning American history.

MENC

(Music Educator's National Conference)

This is an organization for all music education majors ranging from piano to voice to violin. It helps future teachers of music get insights on their future careers. Members participate in the annual Kansas Music Educators Association convention and attend lectur and discussions concerning the issues surrounding the current music education society.

Amnesty International

Amnesty International is a worldwide movement independent of any government, political persuasion or religious creed. It plays a role in the international protection of human rights. Amnesty seeks the release of prisoners of conscience. These are people detained for their beliefs, color, sex. ethnic orgin, language or religion who have not used or advocated violence. Also, Amnesty works for fair and prompt trials for all political prisoners and it opposes the death penalty and torture or other cruel, inhumane, or degrading treatment or punishment of all prisoners without reservation. Amnesty International is impartial and is concerned solely with protection of human rights involved in each case.

BACCHUS

(Boosting Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students)

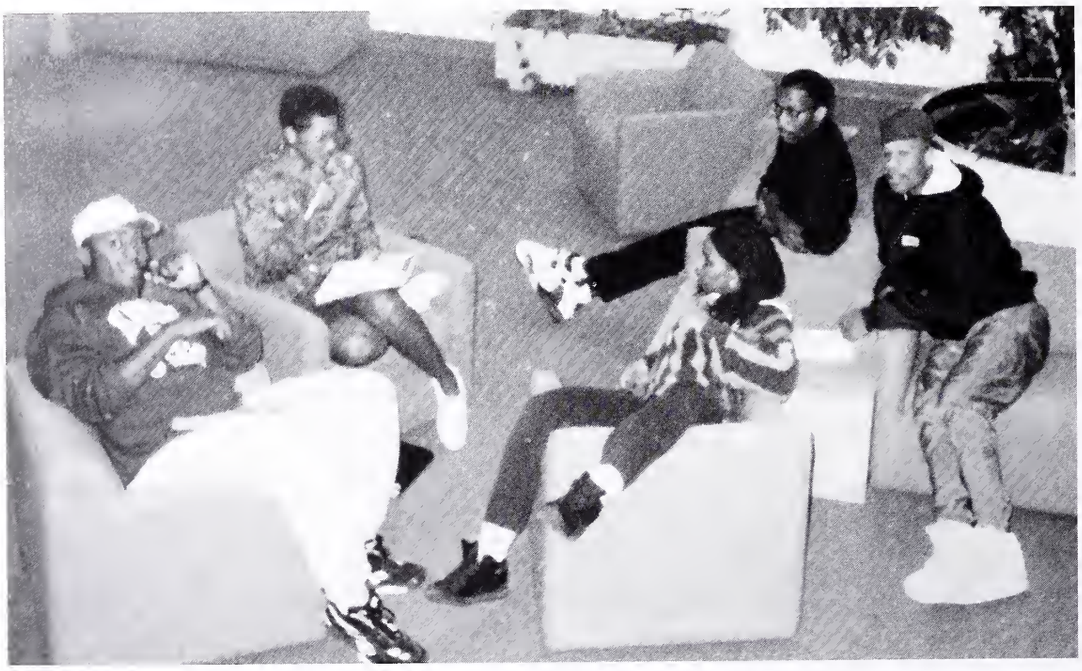
BACCHUS is a nationwide organization that seeks to promote healthy lifestyles and positive, educated decision making. BACCHUS at Bethel is especially concerned with promoting responsible behavior and respect for state laws and campus policies concerning alcohol use or non-use. BACCHUS us involved in National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week in October, as well as a Safe Spring Break campaign in the spring.

EAC

(Environmental Action Club)

A picture from Earth Day, sponsored by the EAC

The Environmental Action Club aims to reconcile people in their relationship with the earth. Members follow their mission by informing concerned people about environment issues, such as the effects of ozone and greenhouse gasses, and writing letters to reverec congresspeople near and far. Earth Day and the EAC also foster awareness of how people with environmentally destrucive tendencies can live gently with the earth. EAC members are exuberant as they explore and, of course, recycle.



MCO

(Mulit-Cultural Organization)

A few of the MCO members brainstorming ideas. Clockwise: Curtis Lee, Don Chew, Melanie Burke, Alfredo Malcolm, Hope Lee.

The Multi Cultural Organization sponsors a number of social and educational events dealing with minority student issues. Membership is open to all students who are interested.

International Club

nternational Club tries to bring students from different cultures together. People who would not usually have a chance to meet each other ue to differences in culture and/or distance of home countries, can take part in a number of club sponsored activities and interact with other ationalities. The club offered events or activities each month of the school year. Monthly meetings were held at Marty Ward's house in rder to plan and discuss upcoming events, such as the International Student's Convocation in the fall. Some of the countries represented this ear were Bangladesh, China, Germany, Great Britain, and Spain.

Sappho

appho is an organization comprised of both men and women who seek to address a wide range of feminist issues pertaining to persons of all ges, genders, religions, ethnic backgrounds, sexual orientations, and socio-economic status. Sappho also offers a supportive environment for liscussion of these issues as they relate to community, not solely on the Bethel campus, but in society at large as well.

Student Activities Board

The goal of SAB is to provide a wide range of activities for the students of Bethel College. These activities encompass the diversity tha found on the Bethel College. SAB works in conjunction with other groups on campus to facilitate the planning of activites outside the range of SAB. The board counts on students' input in planning and evaluating these events. Through these services, it wishes to expa students' experience at Bethel by building on aspects of faith, learning, and social interaction. Activities for the year include dances, movies, Winter Frolic, Spring Fling, and the comedy show.

Student Alumni Association

The Student Alumni Association (SAA) brings students, alumni, administration and friends of Bethel College closer together. SAA members serve as a viable link between the alumni of today and the alumni of the future. The SAA is the only organization that work directly with alumni through the Alumni Association to further the cause of higher education. It plays an important role on many alumni functions both on campus and around the country. Some of the events SAA is involved in every year are Fall Festival, Parent' Weekend, Grandparent's Day, Senior Pizza Party, Alumni Day, and district and national SAA conventions.

Student Senate

Sitting: Tim Klassen, Greta Kroeker, Judy Pfautz, Elizabeth Ediger, Corey Quiring, Becca Tancayo, Kenna Frey, Jenny Reimschisel, Andrea Sayler. Standing: Melanie Burke, Chris Esau, Carmina Chavez, Stephen Obold, David Austin, Sarah Austin, George Rogers.

Student Senate is the student government of Bethel College. The Senate is responsible for establishing and distributing student fees. The Senate makes student appointments to College committees and oversees student organizations, including the Student Activities Board, The Collegian, and The Thresher. The Senate coordinates the annual Workday and allocates all club funding. Finally, the Senate serves as the primary advocate of student rights and is charged with protecting these rights. The Senate is an avenue of student advocacy and allows students to voice concerns to the faculty and administration via student government. The biggest event organized by the Student Senate was the visit of Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr. on November 21 and 22, 1993.

Service

BC KANS

(Bethel College Kansas Association of Nursing Students)

The Kansas Chapter is part of a nation-wide organization -- the National Student Nurse's Association. It is the ony national organization for students of nursing. NSNA offers the opportunity to participate now as a chance to excercise the leadership skills needed to be a nurse. NSNA is involved in speaking for all nursing students. It is their "voice" in nursing and among health professionals. There is an annual state and national convention where officers at all levels (national, state, and local) are elected for the year,as well as activities planned for all of the levels.

The Campus Ministries Team is made up of faculty members as well as students. This organization aims to promote campus worship, community building, spiritual growth and offers service and discipleship opportunities. Some of the events students and other community members can expect to take place on a regular basis are the Wednesday morning Chapel worship service, informal Bible study groups and the traditional Lighting of the Green at Christmas time. Also offered are Fall and Spring Retreats and the Pastor in Residence program. Service opportunities include Fall Service Emphasis Day, Spring Service Emphasis Week and membership in the Bethel College Service Corps. The Campus Ministries Team also sponsors the annual Staley Lectures, the Menno Simons Lectures and the Peace Lecture Series. Their theme verse for the year is "May Christ dwell in your hearts through faith, as you are being rooted and grounded in love," Ephesians 3:17.

Organ Guild

The 1993 season has truely ben a growing season for the Thresher Football team. By repeating their record from last year, 3 and 6, they felt some what disappionted. Many new freshman joined the Bethel Threshers and, naturally, under went a growing process. Now the Thresher's eyes are cast upon the '94 footbal season.

The Tabor win at the beggining of the year became a big boost for the team.

Bethel Colleges 93-94 volleyball team hasn't had a very good year. Greg Hinex sophomore says, " The games I have attended really impressed me score wise." First year freshman Tamara Jordan says, " I enjoy seeing my fellow college mates out there winning big, because it really makes me proud to be a Bethel College student." " The games have been really inconsistent." says junior Stacy Koontz. Freshamn Tiffany Wyse said, " The chemistry wasn't there at the beginning but towards the end they pulled it together." The Lady Threshers didn't make it to District this year. Freshman Tiffany Wyse said, "It was unfortunate that they didn't make it to Districts." Better luck next Year!

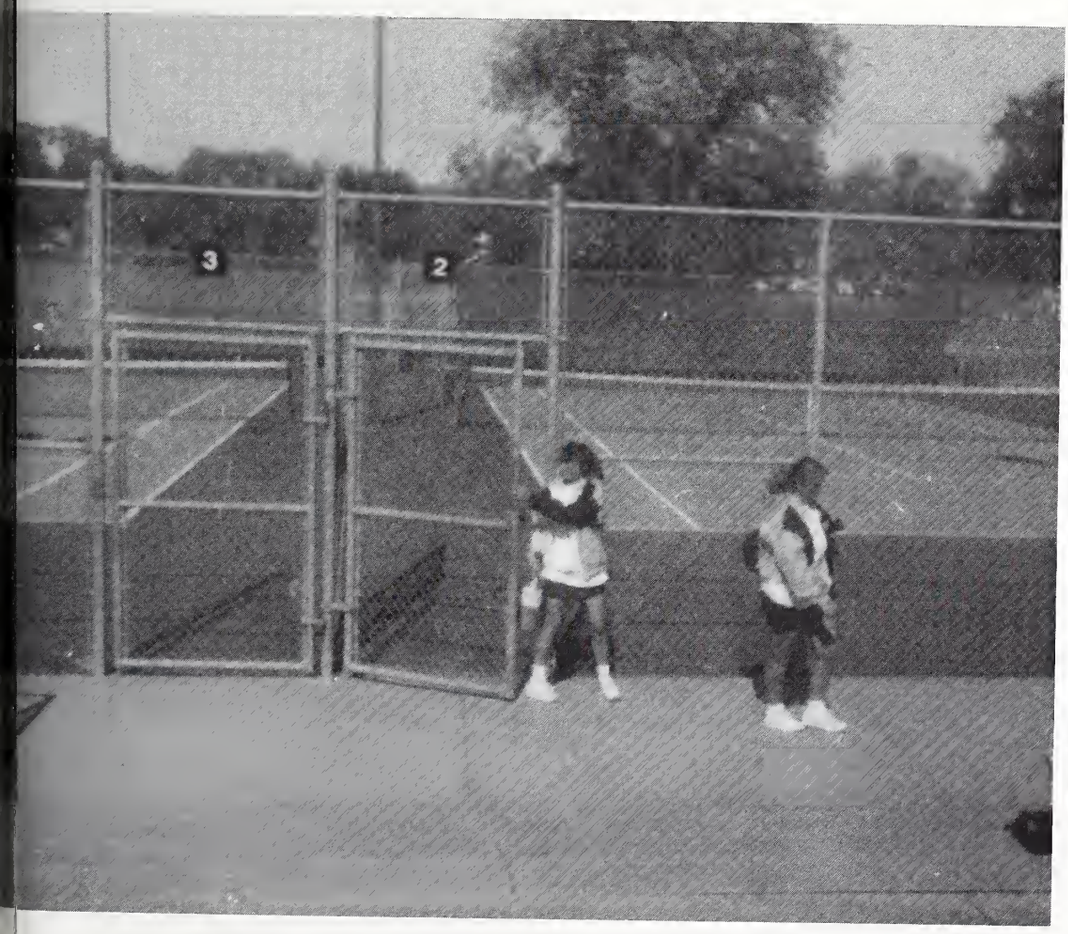
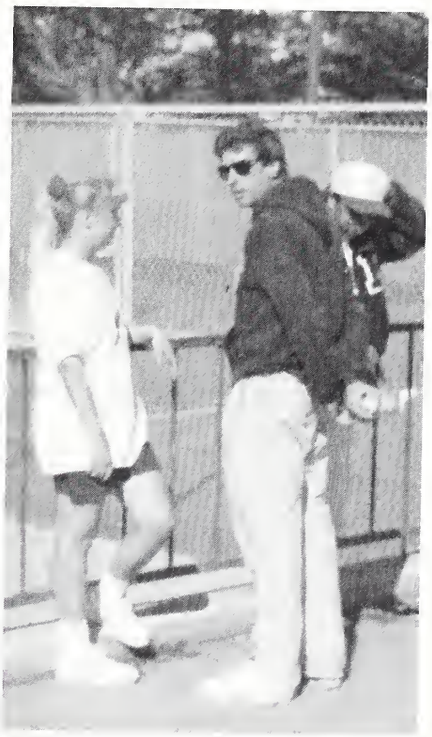
The Thresher women's tennis team experienced another sucessful year. The women finished the season undefeated in dual meets with a 10-0 record. The Threshers were also undefeated in tournament play winning the Emporia State Invitational, the Bethel Invitational, and the Conference and District 10 titles. Coach Marty Ward said, " The 1993 womens tennis team was a record setting team as they became Bethel's first ever team to go through the fall season undefeated. Also they will go down as the lst NAIA District 10 championship team due to the dropping of District qualification in favor of Conference qualification for Nationals beggining in the fall of 1994." Finishing the season undefeated took a lot of work and effort by the coach and players. The Threshers faced strong competition throughout the season from teams such as Baker University and Washburn University. Team captain Rebecca White, jr from Edgerton, KS, felt Baker was one of the toughest dual meets the women played. White said, " Baker was a tough team, we played them very early in the season which made it even harder."

The Threshers were strong this year as well. The team had five returning juniors and one returning sophmore. Part of the strength of the team came form a high number of returning players and the depth of the team. White said, " We were strong throughout the lineup. Most teams will have at least two or three good players, but we were strong at all positions." The women also worked hard in order to have a sucessful season. Elizabeth Ediger, jr from Hutchinson, KS said, " I came into the season with the goal of winning Districts and going to Nationals. We worked hard during the season with this goal in mind and we achieved it."

The women also competed during the winter in an MVTA tournament held in Kansas City, and faced Creighton University in a dual meet at Kansas State University. Ward commented, " One satisfying aspect of this year has been at establishing oursleves as a top team regionally. In addition to our success in the Conference and District, we defeated all the NCAA II teams in Kansas and we are recognized as a very good small college tennis team."





Marty Ward gives a little words of wisdom to Beth Sweedberg.

Entering the year with high goals and expectations, the men's tennis team met nearly every goal set and raised future expectations for a team that returns all but one varsity player.

The team consistently competed against top competition, including nationally ranked NAIA and JUCO schools as well as larger CAA Division II schools. This tough schedule didn't help the team's overall record, but it did allow them to face strong teams and players all year long.

The team played such a demanding schedule because it was, as coach Marty Ward repeatedly stated throughout the year, "the best team Bethel has had." In the past, the goal was simply to win the Conference. This year, the goal was to win Districts and qualify for Nationals.

No member of a men's team from Bethel has ever made it to the National tournament, and this year's team just barely fell short the District tournament, losing to Baker in six of eight finals. To qualify, the entire team must win Districts in order to move on. However, if the one singles or one doubles position wins at Districts, the individual or individuals can advance without the rest of the team.

At one singles, Jared Ward, freshman from N. Newton, Ks, lost in three sets after beating Baker in their two previous meetings. At two singles, Victor Gil, freshman from Alicante, Spain, soundly defeated his opponent 6-1, 6-1. Three singles, provided Bethel's only other district title when Wichita junior Chris Mitchell cruised to a convincing 6-1, 6-2 victory. Team captain Chris Lewis, senior from Muskogee, Ok, lost at four singles, Wayne Hodgson, junior from Osawatamie, Ks, lost at five singles, and Osborne freshman Vance Van Pelt was narrowly defeated at the number six slot.

In the doubles, Gil and Ward lost in three sets at the one spot and Mitchell and Van Pelt did the same at three. Hodgson and Lewis placed third at two doubles.

"Districts was a real disappointment," said Lewis. "We all felt like we had a good shot at making it to Nationals, but we couldn't quite pull it off. Still, winning conference for the fifth year in a row was a good accomplishment and the team had a great season overall."

On a brighter note, the Threshers did win the Bethel Invitational for the second year in a row, edging Baker by one point, and won six out of nine individual titles at the Conference tournament. Also, three members were awarded postseason honors. Ward was named to the All-Conference and District teams as well as being voted Conference MVP. Gil earned All-Conference and District awards as well after a spectacular season where he went undefeated in both Conference and District until the doubles final Districts. And Mitchell was voted All-District and Honorable Mention All-Conference.

With five out of six returning varsity players and a strong group of incoming freshman, Bethel looks to be the dominant force in the KCAC Conference for years to come.

The thrill of victory and the agony of defeat. The Bethel soccer team had more than their share of agony this fall, finishing up the season with only one win, against McPherson College. However, Chris Blosser says, " The record doesn't really reflect the season. Many of the games were very close, and it was a disappiontment not to be able to pull them out." The general consensus amoung team members was that the team worked well together, and definately improved as the year went along. Blosser feels, "The team as a whole grew in its cohesiveness."

Along with many newcomers to the team, a particular high incidence of injury for the season resulted in some mid-season recruiting. Ben Jones, sophpomore from Oakland Park, filled the position of goal keeper halfway through the season. Injuries also resulted in some shifting in positions. Junior, Travis Wallace feels that it was a productive season that helped him gain experience by playing different positions.

Graduating team member Scott Young, Robby Dyck and Nate Epp will be missed. First year student Matt Derstine from Bluffton, OH, expressed surprise at the supportiveness displayed by the upper classmen. " It's not something that I really would have expected, and it really empressed me." The younger team members feel that what they learned from those with more experience will stand them good stead for the following season.

The men's Thresher team began the basketball season with a new coach, new plays and definitely a new attitude. The end result was being ranked sixth in the Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference (KCAC).

The new coach Mark Yoder, who was formely the men's basketball coach for Hesston College, came to Bethel with a back to back win at Hesston and planned to prove himself at Bethel. Yoder stressed defense and a win of half the season.

From the start of the season the Thresher men had their sights set on the play offs and with a lot of hard work and perseverance it all paid off. They beagn the season with two fustrating games, but came back with a closer team to defeat the rest of their opponents. They gained the highest win of the year 109- 102 against Kansas Wesleyan.

The Thresher men have come a long way. As A.J Green, junior from Denver, Colorado, said, " It was a better season than last year, it improved to an extent and I had more fun."

The Threshers lead by a new coach received many new records; 3rd KCAC team scoring, 3rd KCAC team free throw percentage and 5th KCAC team rebounding. In all, the men finished with a 10-17 mark which was not a true reflection of the season.

Three team members received KCAC honors, Don Chew, sophomore from Hesston, Kansas, received All KCAC, and Eric Nactigal, senior from Newton, Kansas, received Honorable mention. Marcos Soto, freshman from San Antonio, Texas was also voted co-freshman player of the year in All KCAC.

The women Threshers this year saw their most sucessful season in 15 years and were ranked sixth in the Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference (KCAC . " It was a great season with lots of fun. said Jeanette Baily, junior from Dawson Creek , British Columbia.

DeAnn Dick, junior from Moundridge, Kansas, received junior player of the week honors during mid season and broke Bethel's winning score. Melissa Funk, freshman from Hesston, Kansas, also received honorable mention.

It truely was an exceptional season for the women Threshers largely due to the , " closeness of t team and the extra confidence." said Amy Allen, sophomore from Milton., Kansas. The Threshers used a slightly different technique this year,the run and shoot offense. They used the strength of running to beat their opponent and it paid off. They also used more intense practicesnoot used before. The women Threshers finished with an over all win of 16-11. Allen believes, " that the Threshers had a lot of experience this year that will hopefully carry over to next year."

The Thresher women finished 3rd KCAC team scoring offense, 2nd KCAC team field goal percenntage, 3rd KCAC team free throw percentage and 3rd KCAC team three point field goal.The is confidence that the women Threshers will continue this excellent record and host the play offs in the near future.

Medals, Medals and more Medals

The Bethel Track team was this year introduced to a new outdoor track program and jumped their way to success. They challenged some of the top track Colleges and Universities and took them by surprise. There were more freshman participating this year than in previous years and their talent brought home many medals for Bethel. Arrisa Unruh, freshman from Greensburg, Kan., placed fourth in the 400 meter run at McPherson. Unruh also took fourth place at Sterling in both the 400 meter run and the long jump.

Following in freshman foot steps Vanessa Schmidt, freshman from Goessel, Kan., took second at Sterling in the high jump.

Stacy Koontz, senior from Hutchinson, Kan., showed her talents again this year, after an excellent track record of last year. Koontz qualified for the NAIA, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, track nationals placing first in the javelin and discuss at the McPherson meet. Koontz also took first in the javelin and third in the discuss Sterling.

In all the Bethel track team had a very successful year and we wish them all the best for next year. As George Rogers, dean of students and varsity track coach said, "We've got some good athletes." And they can only get better.

Sculptures appear mysteriously on campus

New metal sculptures have been mysteriously appearing around campus during the past year. Last fall there appeared in front of the library a tall metal person, known as Clark. Later, a large eye was bolted to the concrete post along the sidewalk to Warkentin Court. Most recently, three flowers appeared on the green in front of the library, and were later moved to the common green by the fountain. These mysteries are the work of Eric Frey, sophomore art major from Newton. "I used to just tell people that this campus had very little external art, and finally I just took it upon myself to change that," said Frey. Part of the mystery has been that the sculptures appear anonymously. "Even though I don't leave a name on the pieces, I think most people usually know who did it."

A year of joy and sorrow for all as we gather our belongings and head our seperate ways. Whether our journey has just begun or has a way to go yet, all of us have memories of life at Bethel College. Here we have grown and spread our wings in both the classroom and social arenas.

We will always remamber Arnold Wedel as he retires from his long term as Head Mathmatician at Bethel College. He will always be remembered in our hearts and minds. Also we bid farewell to our esteemed President John Zehr.

Special thanks to Thane Chastain and other photo contributers, Jostens staff for putting it all together and to the great support system that we had this year, especially around deadline times. The staff hopes that the yearbook will bring back many wonderful memories for all. Enjoy, for many long hours were put in by the staff. (Thanks Kristine and Rodney !!)
